Historical Note

The Byron Society of America was founded in 1973 by Marsha M. Manns and Leslie A. Marchand to further the study of the life and work of Romantic poet George Gordon Byron, Lord Byron (1788-1824). The Society, originally referred to as The American Committee of the Byron Society, chose Byron’s birthday, January 22, for the founding date.

The Society brings together Byron scholars, leaders and collectors throughout the United States and Canada to promote scholarship, correspondence, lectures, exhibits, conferences and tours. Early on, the Society published a newsletter that disseminated new scholarship on Byron and Romanticism. Additionally, the Society encouraged correspondence by connecting members with each other.

In 1992, Manns and Marchand began discussions with the University of Delaware to provide institutional support to the Byron Society of America. In 1995, the operations of the Society were moved to the University of Delaware and Dr. Charles E. Robinson became the executive director. Also in 1995, the Byron Society Collection at the University of Delaware was founded by Marsha M. Manns and Leslie A. Marchand to house donations of books, memorabilia, ephemera, and autographs from Society members. Over 100 members have donated materials to the Byron Society Collection.

In 2010, the Byron Society of America found a permanent home at Drew University in Madison, NJ. The agreement with the University provides for an advisory board of three members from the Society and three members from Drew University.

The Byron Society of America Archive documents the activities of the Society, including the vast correspondence of its members, original scholarship, and the development of the Byron Society Collection.

Scope and Content Note

The Byron Society of America Archive contains the history of the Byron Society of America, including the founding and activities of the Society. It includes information on membership, finances, and donations to the Byron Society Collection, as well as original scholarship published in the Society newsletter. Additionally, the collection contains information on related societies, information on Byron, his family and the places he visited, and rich correspondence between Byron scholars.

Membership Files are a rich source of research and contain annual membership forms, correspondence with individual members, and unpublished scholarship. Subject Files consist of a broad range of materials relating to Lord Byron, Romanticism, and Byron scholarship. Included are articles, information on people and places, and research of Byron Society of America members.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged into six series:

Series I. Administrative Files
   Subseries A. Membership Files
   Subseries B. Donor Files
   Subseries C. Financial Files
Subseries D. Byron Society Collection at Delaware

Series II. Correspondence
Subseries A. General Correspondence
Subseries B. Mass Mailings
Subseries C. Correspondence of Charles E. Robinson

Series III. Subject Files
Series IV. Events
Series V. Newsletter
Series VI. Images
